Subject: Added specific support for printing large Images
Posted by mirek on Tue, 05 Sep 2006 23:20:34 GMT
View Forum Message <> Reply to Message

They are now cut into smaller parts and scanned for monochromatic areas (rectangles with single color), if such areas are big enough, they are painted as rects.

This should reduce the printer bandwidth and also solves problem with Windows 98 and large images (believe or not, while I have planned this for some time, the main reason I had to do it right now is to support single remaining Windows 98 computer of my customer...)

Mirek